

Dear Parents,

This week our writing has been influenced by our Rabbit Who Stole the Fire story. Last week the children wrote letters from Rabbit to the Sky People, and this time we wrote a reply letter. The vocabulary choices the children are making are drawn from the story and show the influence it is having. I have also been very impressed at the children's use of apostrophes for contractions, these are improving all the time.

In maths we have been adding money and subtracting it to give change. The children have really applied their knowledge and understanding from the previous work on addition and subtraction. Next week we are moving on to multiplication and division.

We have begun rehearsing the Christmas nativity! Thank you for learning words at home - keep working on the volume so you can hear them at the back of the hall!

Next week, we would love some of you to walk to the library and back with us on Tuesday 9.30-10.45 ish, we need at least 1 extra adult please. Also if you would like a sneak peek of the Christmas songs, we have been invited to sing at the social club on Thursday afternoon at 2-3pm. We need 4 extra adults please!

Have a lovely weekend,

Mrs Martin
