

Dear Parents,

This week we have started our new topic of 'Fire!'. We have begun to learn about The Great Fire of London and Samuel Pepys. In preparation for our campfire on the 13th (a letter will be coming home about this), we have begun to learn some campfire songs for singing.

In English we have read our new story called The Rabbit Who Stole the Fire. This is traditional Native American story and involves a cunning rabbit who steals fire from the Sky People. We will be learning how to tell this story in the same way we learnt The Little Mermaid.

In maths we have been learning about subtraction and this has included using exchange. We have practised the column method for working out along with drawing jottings. Next week we will be beginning our unit on money. Please practise recognising coins and adding them if you have a few minutes.

We have parents evening next Thursday and your time slot will be coming home tonight (Friday).

Have a lovely weekend,

Mrs Martin
